

Social Security And Fair Return For All Are Bracken Aims

International Police Force Needed To Secure Permanent Peace, Says Progressive-Conservative

"These are great days in which we live, interesting days, critical days," John Bracken, former premier of Manitoba and leader of the Progressive-Conservative party, told an interested audience in Newmarket town hall on Saturday evening.

"They are interesting days because no generation previous to ours ever had so great a control over the physical forces around us. They are critical because our Christian democracy is at a crossroads. And they are challenging because no generation prior to ours knew as well how to make the world better.

"We face a threefold challenge, a war to win, a peace to make enduring, and a world to make more acceptable to the common man," said Mr. Bracken.

"The last war cost us a little less than 2,000 million dollars. This war up to the beginning of this year cost as much as government for the first 50 years of Confederation, including the last war. This year alone the war is costing us 5,000 million dollars.

"There are two kinds of soldiers in this war, the boys in uniform and those like you and me who are civilian clothes. The boys in uniform are ready to sacrifice their lives but they can't win without our help.

"The last peace was to end wars. It didn't end wars for several reasons. One reason was that the peace makers didn't provide for an international police force. A resolution of the League of Nations wouldn't prevent Japan from overrunning Manchuria.

"The question is whether 25 years from now children now unborn will be called upon to go to war. Our representatives at the peace table should see that, first, there is provision for an international police force that will make sure that no nation arms behind our back. Second, as long as the philosophy exists that war is inevitable until one race dominates all others, there will be cause for war. How are we to get that false philosophy out of 80,000,000 people in Germany and the people of Japan.

"What kind of a world are you and I going to leave? Is it good enough? It is a pretty good world in some respects, but it has developed some defects which we should try to remedy.

"We must ensure to every young man the opportunity to make his living, work at fair pay under

TROUT RECORD BROKEN AGAIN AT LAKE SIMCOE

Three fishermen from the motor city hauled in a limit catch of trout recently off Duques Point near Sutton. The 15 trout had among them one which tipped the scales at 17 1/2 pounds, just a pound heavier than the one Ross Smalley caught a couple of weeks ago to establish a local record.

The Oshawa fishermen had one of eight boats rented that day. There were 62 trout hauled in altogether. Instead of having to go out about four miles, as is usually the case at this time of year, they caught the fish about a mile and a quarter from the shore. Even some of the first-time fishermen were successful in catching trout.

Mayor's Son Wins Twice For No. 23 In Combined Operations

Army, Navy and R.C.A.F. Struggle For Supremacy In Dominion And Army Day Celebration At Camp

An army operation of considerable magnitude was carried out on July 1 at No. 23 B.T.C., under the energetic inspiration of the commanding officer, Major N. M. Young, in co-operation with the Newmarket Citizens' Committee.

The camp committee was headed by Major J. M. Eason with Lieut. Tom George as chief adviser. H. E. Lambert was the fountain-head of co-operation from the Citizens' Committee. This combined operations group appointed sub-committees, each headed by one of practically all the officers in camp. All committees held several formal meetings, out of which sprang a well-organized Army Day celebration.

Activities began with a route march, composed of all companies, as well as all available transport, through the streets of Newmarket, where it was joined by various civilian bodies. The salute was taken in front of the King George hotel by Major N. M. Young and Mayor L. W. Dales.

At 11.30 a softball tournament began among teams from H.M.C.S. York, R.C.A.F. Manning

Mayor Sees Many Problems Ahead For John Bracken

DR. DALES WELCOMES NEW LEADER FROM WEST TO NEWMARKET

After travelling from coast to coast, John Bracken, leader of the Progressive-Conservative party, told the people of North York, in Newmarket town hall on Saturday evening, that he did not see why anyone living in this district would want to live anywhere else.

"I get a thrill going through your countryside," said Mr. Bracken, a native of Ontario, although he has lived most of his life in the west. "You can't imagine what a difference there is between the level prairies and the lovely hills of this province."

"This is one of the most fortunate sections of not only Canada but also of America," said Mr. Bracken. "You have a balanced agriculture and industry."

Mr. Bracken said that he had been from Whitehorse in the Yukon to Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, where he went out three or four miles under the sea in a coal mine.

On the platform with Mr. Bracken were Mrs. Bracken, Warden J. S. Osborne and Mrs. Osborne, and Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales and Mrs. Dales.

Dr. Dales, not a Progressive-Conservative himself, acted as chairman and welcomed Mr. Bracken to Newmarket. "Your desire to know people and study local conditions by your personal observation is most commendable. This is a rather famous county in which we live. It has been a pioneer in the struggle for responsible and representative government.

"Your position as a leader of a large and influential party is filled with great opportunity and heavy responsibilities. I have deliberately avoided calling it an opposition party. I have never liked the opposition idea for any group or party, for it seems to me the term could be misunderstood and practiced too literally by public men who have never felt the inspiration of patriotic co-operation and real

Specialty Ties Tannery For Season's First Triumph

DAVIS LEATHER BOYS LOSE PUNCH AFTER WEEK'S HOLIDAYS

There's a saying that "all good and bad things must come to an end some day." The saying came true on Tuesday evening at the hardball diamond when the Davis Leather boys snapped their winning streak, which had extended into four games, and the Office Specialty broke their losing streak, which had reached the fifth game stage.

In a seven-inning game the Office Specialty and the leathermen battled to a 7-7 stalemate. The game was one of the best played at the Stuart Scott school diamond this year.

The tanners took an early lead in the first inning, when they sent three runners scurrying over the plate. The Specialty countered in the second with two runs.

The tanners went farther ahead in the third when they scored three more. They had driven Ken Flett from the mound, and Harold Hilton hurled the final four innings.

The Specialty batters kept pecking away at the delivery of Bob Peters and when the tanners came to bat for their half of the seventh the furniture men were leading. It looked as though they had at last managed to come up with a win.

However, the Davis team rallied, to send one run over in the last half of the seventh and tie the game. The game ended with the bases loaded but the leathermen lacked the punch to put across the final and what would have proved the winning run.

Specialty: Gould 3b, Widdifield 2b, Blight cf, VanZant c, Hopper 1b, Palmateer rf, Hilton ss-p, Flett p, Broughton lf, Wilson 1b.

Davis: W. Haskett ss, Gunn 2b, Peters p, Cain cf, Tansley c, G. Haskett 1b, Harmon lf, Cotton 3b, McHale rf, Gibney.

VOTING SOON

There will be an Ontario election on Wednesday, Aug. 4. Col. Drew, the opposition leader, and others think that there should be no election at the present moment. Col. Drew, who voted against a further extension of the life of the legislature, thinks that there should be no election with "proxy" voting for soldiers. Mitchell Hepburn, Mr. Nixon's predecessor once removed (finally removed, many will hope), says with reason that Mr. Nixon must hold an election when he voted against an extension of the life of the legislature.

The only question that matters now is whether the Nixon government is to be returned to power, and the question as to who shall represent each riding. If it were the Hepburn government, most people would be quite clear in their minds about how they were going to vote. They would be determined to vote against the rascal, but before the election was over his showmanship would have stolen their hearts again and they would have returned him to power.

Mr. Nixon is neither rascal nor darling. He doesn't disassociate himself from Mr. Hepburn's rascalities, and he has not yet found a major "issue." He doesn't disassociate himself from the Hepburn policy of liquor sales promotion for revenue, and he has yet to tell what use he would make of a term at Queen's Park as premier. If Mr. Nixon doesn't enunciate a clear-cut program for war and post-war (with emphasis on increased social services), the outcome of the election will depend on the enterprise of his opponents, Col. Drew of the Conservatives and Mr. Jolliffe of the C.C.F.

In North York we will have a choice of Morgan Baker, the present member and a Liberal, Harold Mitchell, the reeve of North York township and a C. C. Fer, and a Progressive Conservative candidate still to be chosen. Mr. Baker is a man we don't understand, although we began to listen to his public addresses away back in 1934 when he and "Mitch" were "swinging well to the left." Mr. Baker is a gifted public speaker. He speaks eloquently and he says the right things. He is in favor of making the world over, just as the rest of us are, but he makes practically all his speeches at election time. Had he used his gifts in the legislature, he should have gained substantial recognition and made a notable contribution to Ontario's advancement in social legislation.

Our thought is that North York will prove a fairly typical constituency. If the public is in a Nixon government frame of mind, Mr. Baker (we presume that he will again be the choice of a Liberal convention) will carry North York. If the Nixon government goes down, Mr. Baker is quite likely to be turning his seat over to a Conservative or a C. C. Fer. There is a duty now upon the candidates and upon the public, to give Ontario's affairs a thorough public discussion.

CANADA GOES AHEAD

In spite of the charges of maladministration and muddling made against the King administration at Ottawa, it is evident from reading U.S. publications that things could be worse. In the U.S. we are told, the war will have produced a new crop of millionaires. In the U.S. price and wage controls, which everyone recognizes as necessary to avoid inflation's squeeze on all of us, have been comparatively ineffective. In the U.S. the tendency is away from the "New Deal" and its social services and its control of business. In Canada we are moving in the other direction, toward a "New Deal" for the average man.

President Roosevelt has still the common man at heart but he is losing control of Congress and Congress is liquidating the WPA, the CCC and other New Deal agencies. They are not needed at the moment, but they will be needed again. Canada, on the contrary, is planning now how to take care of her young people and provide work for all her people after the war.

The U.S.A. has an unfortunate division of power between the president and Congress, and between the two houses of Congress. In Canada the executive and the legislature are close together, and the government is free to do or not to do, as it wishes. There is no humbug about parliament and cabinet destroying each other's work.

UNBELIEVABLE

It is difficult to believe but, according to an item in the Toronto press, Forest Hill Village has a by-law forbidding the employment of Japanese-origin domestic servants within the municipality. That would be to take away from persons citizenship rights which the dominion parliament has bestowed upon them. If the municipality could prevent Japanese-origin Canadians from working within its boundaries, it could also prevent them from coming within its boundaries. And if all Canadian municipalities should try to exclude Japanese-Canadians, what would be left of the Canadian citizenship which is theirs either through birth in this country or by naturalization? The by-law is clearly beyond the powers (or, as the lawyers say, ultra vires) of the municipality and should be challenged by the Civil Liberties Union.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT ADVERTISING

Two or three persons have mentioned to us what they regarded as the wastefulness of the Ontario government in using full-page advertising space to make an announcement regarding gasoline. At least one Toronto newspaper has taken objection to the advertisement of the previous week telling of the government's financial record.

There was an orgy of Ontario government advertising before the 1937 election, and we are quite sure that it was intended to influence the voting, either through making newspapers feel more kindly toward the government or by impressing the voters with the activities of the government.

While this newspaper welcomes and needs advertising, we don't want advertising that isn't doing a worth-while job. The Ontario government does a lot of worth-while informative advertising, but not as much as it could profitably do in the interests of good government and the people of the province. And it is our opinion that the money spent on the criticized gasoline advertising could have been more profitably spent on publicizing other matters of public interest.

For instance, we think that the liquor control board of Ontario or the Ontario department of health should continuously tell the people of Ontario why they should be temperate in their use of alcoholic drinks. The treasury would lose revenue but the people of Ontario would be richer. Maybe there would be a saving to the treasury in payments for old age pensions, mother's allowances and relief.

THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE US FREE

The Manchester Guardian Weekly performs an unpopular but necessary duty when it takes issue with the use of the term "sneak raid" to describe German air attacks on Britain. The distinguished English newspaper (June 11) says: "The phrase 'sneak raid,' which Capt. Harold Balfour adopted on Saturday in his reference to recent visits of German airmen over this country, is an unfortunate one. For, surely it is the duty of every pilot of a bombing machine to 'sneak' in unobserved, if possible, over his target. In modern warfare no attacking force would be so crazy as to follow Mr. Winkle's example and warn the enemy that it is 'going to begin.'"

Our chances of making a lasting peace are jeopardized by the untruth which we feed ourselves at the present time. Instead of facing the truth that we are destroying far more women and children and churches and schools in Germany than do or can the German "sneak" raiders, we try to tell ourselves that the German airman is dastardly and that we drop our block-buster bombs courteously (on homes, factories and churches without partiality). We should realize that while we are aiming at "military targets," we consider civilian morale a military target—and rightly.

It is no use hating the Germans. We will have to live with them, and we will have to get together with them and all other members of the white races and readjust our attitudes towards the yellow, brown and black races. (What a problem, for instance, the Dutch, English and Germans have to solve in South Africa, where the black man is not yet conceded to be a human being!) As long as there are "inferiors" in the world, there is still a potential cause for other and more terrible wars.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

UNPLEASANT BUT NECESSARY

(Ottawa Citizen)

Rudyard Kipling was at his best when immortalizing the colorful British private soldier in prose and verse. A staff officer once asked Kipling why he did not do the same for those of higher military rank. The poet replied that it was impossible to become lyrical over King's Rules and Regulations.

It is impossible, of course, to become enthusiastic about rules and regulations of any sort, for the simple reason that by their very nature they invariably impose restrictions upon the freedom of action of individuals. When anything of the kind threatens British people they write to The Times about it. Which is all to the good in time of peace; but in war-time, particularly in war against the most overbearing would-be conquerors the world has ever known, we should all think well before complaining about government orders which might temporarily deprive us of the right to live our lives in our own chosen way.

The various orders that are issued from time to time by the national selective service are cases in point. Nobody will contend that these orders could possibly be welcomed by anybody. But those in authority have decided that they are necessary if we are to win this war without too much dislocation of our national life.

The object of the most recent order issued by the national selective service is to make available for essential work men who are now employed in non-essential occupations, that is, men who are producing things or rendering services which, in these difficult times, we can readily do without.

It is not pleasant to have the even tenor of our lives disrupted, but war is no respecter of persons. Thousands of our young men of military age have gone straight from the colleges and joined the armed forces of this country. Thousands of older men have given up lucrative jobs in which the future seemed so bright in order to play an honorable part in putting down oppression. Many of them have already given their lives. It is not too much, therefore, to ask that those men now engaged in non-essential occupations and who are not called to serve in the army, navy or air force, report to the nearest national selective service office for other employment which will enable them to make a very direct contribution to our united war effort.

LETTING ENEMY GET CERTAIN SUPPLIES

(Orillia Packet and Times)

Every little while some ill-informed scribbler of letters to the press breaks forth in indignation against "big business" because certain raw materials are reaching enemy countries. Terrible! This callous disregard of patriotic impulses for the sake of a little profit! A correspondent of the Saturday Evening Post describes this "trade with the devil," as he terms it.

To begin with, he says the trade is chiefly carried on by the belligerent governments, and not by greedy merchants of death. And there is good reason for most of it. Supplying Franco with gasoline, for instance, has been a recent point of attack. But according to this correspondent, Spanish people in millions are starving for lack of transportation facilities to get food to them. Their primary need was gasoline to move the trucks. Knowing this, Germany offered Franco gasoline if he would wink at the use of obscure Spanish ports and airfields as submarine and plane bases. Franco refused.

By way of making it up to him, the Americans permitted Franco to carry to Spain oil from reserves in the Caribbean, which they themselves couldn't use for lack of tankers. And Franco agreed to permit American inspectors to supervise its distribution, to see none of it reached Germany. Franco is paying for the gasoline, not in money but in supplies needed by the Allies, including iron ore, for which Spain has been Britain's chief source of supply.

A transaction of which less has been heard is the sale of British-owned wolfram, mined in Portugal, to Germany. Wolfram is the basis of tungsten, and Germany needs it badly. Hitler advised Portugal, Britain's ancient ally, that unless he was given a share of the output of the mines, he would send over an army and take it all. Since the British government were not then in a position to prevent this, they agreed to take only a proportion of the wolfram for themselves, and allow the rest to be sold in the open market.

What isn't generally known is that the United States is getting rubber from the Dutch East Indies, through Japan. When war with Japan broke out, the United States government transferred a number of ships to Russian registry, under lease lend. These ships are carrying American munitions to Russia, via Vladivostok, through Japanese waters. Since Russia and Japan are at peace, and tied by a neutrality pact, Russia is buying some of Japan's large surplus of rubber. What the Soviets don't need for themselves, they are turning over to their ally, the United States. Japan, of course, doesn't like it, but can't afford to quarrel with Russia over the transaction.

All of which goes to show that many of these transactions aren't so sinister as they appear on the surface. Some of the "trading" that has been done has been involuntary, or amusing. Thus, one of Sweden's chief sources of silk is British balloons that break loose from their moorings as air raid protection over cities, and drift across the North Sea. The Swedes shoot them down, for the sake of the silk. One of Russia's best aeroplanes is made by the machinery of a French automobile factory that the Germans handed over to the Russians, in payment for wheat and other supplies. And when Germany failed to carry out a promise to furnish Turkey with parts for aeroplanes purchased from the Reich, the British came to the rescue by supplying them from German planes shot down by the Royal Air Force. In return, the Turks sold to Great Britain priceless chrome for which the Germans had contracted. Most international trade is now a matter of barter, and not of money.

MODERN SLANG

By GOLDEN GLOW

"Modern Slang" is a large subject, and I don't propose to cover that much ground in one small, short article; just one, or maybe two, modern expressions that have become generally used and generally accepted within the last few years will be sufficient for this time.

We use certain expressions, they become very popular, and are on the lips of most of us, then for some unknown reason, they die down and one never hears them again for some other expression captures the popular fancy in their place. We must admit that while slang isn't exactly "elegant"—or often is not good English—yet you can express your meaning so aptly that we are using it before we are aware of it.

Not long ago, if anyone did not think much of some opinion expressed, just the one word "applesauce" simply brushed aside the whole question; and now "applesauce" has given way to "baloney" (doubleless from the word bologna, a sausage meat named after a town in Germany that made it extensively). "Baloney" was the favorite slang expression of Al Smith, former governor of New York State. Now that has given way to "you're cuckoo!" And so we go on, and on. The very younger generation simply says "you're bugs," and, with the finality of youth, that ends it!

However, I am of the older generation and although I pride myself on keeping up-to-date, do not pretend to keep up with modern slang, but of course, we older ones do occasionally hear it. For instance, you hear that so-and-so is "in the dog-house." Now what do you make of that expression?

There was a broadcast on the radio not so long ago under that title, and a good many people took a lot of fun listening in to it.

And again, if you have your facts not quite clear or slightly mixed, you'll be told your ideas are "screwy." Isn't that really isn't straight, you could imagine

Of People And Things

MONTHS

By Isabel Inglis Colville

To some people months are only a way of dividing time; to others, each month has a particular significance. To them, May is just another word for wild flowers and blossoming fruit trees; June is simply a background for a gorgeous display of peonies and roses, but July has a deeper, a more spiritual meaning for those who cherish the right to live as individuals, not as state owned, state driven nonentities.

There are five or six nations that celebrate their birthdays—the day they were born—as nations—in July, anyway for each one of them, the month with its richness of color, its fruit and crops, its flowers and thrilling bird concerts must seem to typify the glorious sense of freedom that a fine national heritage, won not alone by statesmanship, but by patient endeavor and earnest effort on the part of all citizens, can give.

One sometimes wonders if some people do not consider freedom to be like the wind, a force which can sweep away all obstacles without regard for anything which stands in its way.

Freedom and democracy, to me, are like great trees; they are majestic and benign and fruitful, they are a shelter—or perhaps I should say should be a shelter—from the malefic forces which so often threaten to engulf those who love the right to live ordered decent lives, worshipping and earning and learning in the way best suited to their development.

To me it has seemed that a great deal of the future of a nation depends on the manner in which it won its freedom.

Canada's position as an honored member of the great British Commonwealth of Nations has come about by evolution, not by revolution, and if we can go on evolving peacefully our future will need no violent changes to bring about reforms that, if we are to be true to our heritage of advancement, must be brought about by some means—and we, the people, must decide whether they shall be peaceful or the opposite.

France's change to liberty and equality, took the form of revolution, and a particularly bloody one, and it has seemed to me that ever since blood and tears and strife have marked each step of their progress, when it was progress.

The United States came into their freedom by a strange mixture of revolution, evolution and resolution, and the mixture seems to run through their national life even yet. There is always a certain element in their political economy which is in rebellion against constituted authority. Then there is the steady evolution of the progressives who see far into the future, and there is the burning resolution of all parties to see their country first among peoples.

As I watched the parade in Newmarket on July 1—the young men preparing to fight for a freedom which it took the war to make real to them, and the older men who had fought for an ideal, clearly defined during the last war but never realized in the following false peace. I thought freedom and democracy were well defined by the steady, well ordered advance of those who are not afraid to fight for what they feel they must have, if life is to be what the Creator intended it to be—a preparation for another step forward when we put off the mortal and put on immortality.

HIGH SCHOOL MAKES GIFT TO RED CROSS

Miss Florence Cole and Mrs. Ada Morgan, in charge of the Red Cross work of the Newmarket high school, have sent in the following report of the work done during the year:

Projects sponsored by the art teachers, Miss A. King and Miss Grace Bateson, brought in $37.15 and the literary society of the school contributed $50 for the purchase of wool.

Articles contributed included: one child's knitted outfit, three-piece, nine wool baby jackets, one pr. woolen shorts, seven prs. socks, four wool bonnets, 11 prs. booties, three prs. baby mitts, two flannellette nightgowns, baby's one gert-rude, ten flannellette baby jackets, 18 sweaters for refugee children, two afghans, one wool jumper, one yarn scarf.

Miss A. King brought in art blocks for two quilts, one from a class of girls and one from a class of boys.

You can increase your auction sale returns by hundreds of dollars by publishing the detailed list in The Era and Express. It covers a good part of five townships.

It is twisted—hence screwy! And small boys speak of their face as their "mug," and older ones call it their "map." There I think I've proved I don't know much about my subject, so I think I'd better evaporate, or in slang words "dry up," and leave the subject for some more competent writer. I suppose modern youth would just say "aw, go jump in the lake!"

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Era and Express: I want to thank you for sending me The Newmarket Era and Express each week and I think I receive every copy. It is great to read what is going on in the old town which I am proud of. The boys are treated well over here by the different organizations (that is, the Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, Church Army and Knights of Columbus). The canteens travel to the lonely outposts on cold days to supply hot tea and biscuits to the boys and give free entertainment for the boys in camps.

I want to thank the people of Newmarket for sending me cigarettes. They are very much appreciated. In closing I want to wish you and your staff success and may we all be home soon.

Yours truly,
(Sgt.) C. E. Bennison.
(Editor's Note: Since Feb. 1 Sgt. Bennison's Era and Express has been sent by the Town of Newmarket.)

Franz Strauss, the father of Richard Strauss, the great composer, was a wonderful musician, capable of playing almost any instrument, but specializing in the French horn. He utterly detested Wagner's music, and one day when playing under Wagner's leadership in Munich the composer said to him:

"Strauss, you can't be such an anti-Wagnerite as I hear. You play my music so beautifully!" "And what," asked Strauss, "has that got to do with it?"

TWO-THIRDS of the total number of loans outstanding in Canada's Chartered Banks average less than $500 per loan.

Through bank loans, Canada's Chartered Banks help Canadians to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country. Many of these loans are small—but all contribute their share to the day-by-day activities of Canadian enterprise.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

Chartered Banks' loans related to agriculture as shown on the last official return to Parliament, totalled $340,118,473. This sum included loans to farmers, ranchers, fruit raisers and to grain dealers and grain exporters.

Every general manager today heading a Chartered Bank entered the bank as a junior in some small branch.

Up to and including February, 1943, no fewer than 6803 men and 154 women bank employees had enlisted in the armed forces:

Canadians in every walk of life and in every part of Canada are served by more than three thousand branches and sub-agencies maintained by the Chartered Banks to facilitate the nation's business.

Sleeps In "Pup Tent," Spends French Francs, Hopes Next Change Will Be Italian Lira

Mrs. W. H. Brown, Smithville, formerly of the 7th Con., N. G., has received an interesting letter from her son, LAC Robert W. Brown, who is with the Canadian forces in North Africa. LAC Brown has been overseas since March, 1942. Excerpts of the letter follow:

I've been in North Africa a week and we had to wait until we got settled and got permission to send our mail with that of the U. S. forces as we are the first Canadians in this part of the country.

We had a very quiet trip from England, except for a couple of days at the start when the ship rolled and tossed quite a bit. I was a little sea-sick this time but only for an hour. The last four days were almost a "Mediterranean Cruise."

The sun was always shining and the water was as calm as a duckpond. The ship was much cleaner than the one from Canada to England. We also ate more like human beings. The transportation system was much better too. Instead of carrying everything we only wore skeleton web, water-bottle and rifle and most of us had two kit bags and back-packs which we labeled and collected at this end.

We are now sleeping in small "pup tents" which are just large enough for two to crawl into with all our equipment, except our large kit bag. The first night of sleeping on the ground was pretty hard, but I'm getting used to it now.

We have three blankets each and as it's so warm we fold two double under us with one as cover.

We are eating U. S. rations, which are a big improvement over what we're used to. Most of it is canned goods. It is really a change.

We have pears or peaches for dessert most of the time. I almost forgot what they tasted like. A few fruits like dates, figs and lemons are grown here, but we must be very careful of where we buy them.

Water is plentiful where we are now although it is all chlorinated. Where we are going further east by land we will be issued with about a pint a day which is to be used for washing and drinking. We'll be near where "Jerry" recently pulled out.

I've quite a tan already. We wear shorts most of the time, after sundown we must wear long trousers because of the dangerous Malaria mosquitoes. We are given quinine four times a week, which is very bitter but I just swallow mine with a mouthful of water.

The sun is always shining here, but we are right on the coast, so it isn't as hot as inland. I was wondering how you'd like to swim in the Mediterranean. I've been in twice and it reminds me of Long Island Sound. The currents are very strong when the water is rough. We were just like ducks that hadn't seen water for a year!

We are using French money, francs and centimes. The next change in money will be Italian (we hope).

The Arab people are a very funny race; the women always wear long white cloaks with only their eyes showing. Most of the Arabs live like scavengers, just living on what they find or grow. The men and small boys wear dirty rags or anything they can get.

We had our first sand-storm yesterday; not very bad but it surely gets into everything. The time here is two hours faster than England and eight ahead of Toronto time.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of gardenia white silk marquisette with fingertip veil of embroidered silk tulle and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Her attendants also wore floor-length dresses. Miss Mary O'Neill, as maid of honor, wore pale pink sheer and Miss Marjorie Phillips, the bridesmaid, wore pale blue marquisette. They wore matching shoulder-length veils and pink wreaths and carried Briarcliffe roses.

Mary Kavanagh, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and wore a long dress of pale yellow taffeta, lace trimmed, with poke bonnet to match, and she carried a colonial nosegay of mixed flowers.

The groom was supported by Irwin Stevenson and Frank Kavanagh acted as usher.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Stevenson in navy and white printed sheer with navy hat and a corsage of yellow roses received, assisted by Mrs. Andrus in a navy sheer dress with hat to match and a corsage of pink roses.

The happy couple left for Muskoka, the bride wearing a suit of pale blue wool with white accessories. Upon their return they will reside at Virginia.

This season's opening of the Neighborhood Workers Association, Country Homes Department, Toronto, has revealed the fact that since the inauguration in 1919 of this plan of providing free holidays for less fortunate city children 12,718 boys and girls have enjoyed country vacations through the kindness of rural hostesses.

F. N. Stapleford, general secretary of the Neighborhood Workers Association, in expressing his gratitude to the women who have made holidays possible for so many children stated: "There is great value to a child in a holiday of this kind, quite apart from the economic circumstances. Many children need holidays for health reasons. The majority of children sent out to country homes come from the crowded quarters of the city. Life in the country is a revelation to them—they learn much from their stay in the country and for many of them it is an unforgettable experience which means much to them in later years."

Mr. Stapleford points out that there is still a need, this year, for country women to entertain city children. "While it is true the majority of families are better off, due to increased employment, poverty is not a thing of the past. Many families are still having quite a struggle. There are cases where the father is sick, or incapacitated, or where his wages are not sufficient to cover the expenses of a large family. There are, also, many instances where the father is in the armed forces and the mother is unable to pay the cost of summer holidays out of her regular allowance. Many such families live in the down-town areas of Toronto and the children are forced to play on the hot city pavements now that school is over," he said.

Children on the "Country Homes" list of the Neighborhood Workers Association are between the ages of 12 and 12 years of age. Directors of the vacation plan prefer to send two children to a home, especially in cases where there are no children in the hostess' family. Holidays are for a two weeks' period in July and August and the children are entertained, of course, without remuneration to the hostesses. The Neighborhood Workers Association provides all transportation costs and has the children medically examined before they leave the city. Invitations must come from homes within a 150 mile radius of Toronto and should be accompanied by a letter of reference from the clergyman or some well-known resident.

Provision of a holiday for city children can be considered a real wartime job for country women. Mr. Stapleford points out, as it is essential that the health of children be maintained, that the children be guarded in these times. "I am confident that the women of the rural areas close to Toronto will show their accustomed generosity this summer despite shortage of help and increased work," he said.

Invitations should be addressed to The Country Homes Department, The Neighborhood Workers Association, 22 Wellesley Street, Toronto, and should state clearly the number of children invited, sex and age, preferred, simplest method of transportation from Toronto and time most convenient for the children to arrive.

CRIPPLED BUT PREVENTS BREAK-IN AT NIGHT

Harold Cameron, 39, who makes his way about in a wheel-chair, was credited last week with preventing a break-in at a lunch-room at Jackson's Point. Mr. Cameron has been night watchman at Jackson's Point for the past four years. Mr. Cameron told police that he had heard the sound of broken glass while making his rounds and found a man trying to get in the door of the store. ## CAR IS LOCATED BUT NOT YET RECOVERED

Toronto police located last week the automobile owned by J. E. Nesbitt, Newmarket car dealer, which was stolen from a city parking lot on the night of June 9.

They also have a man under arrest charged with stealing it. The accused man is alleged to have sold the car to a Bay St. automobile firm, following the theft, for $500 cash. He denies ever having seen the car before.

The car has a stolen license plate on it, and the man who sold the car had forged a license to use in transferring the car to the purchaser.

The purchaser contended that he had bought the car in good faith, and presented Mr. Nesbitt with an account for $157 for overhauling the engine.

Mr. Nesbitt refused to pay this account, and has authorized N. L. Mathews, E.C., Newmarket, to take legal action to recover the car.

Mr. Nesbitt offered the firm $100 in settlement of its claim. Mr. Nesbitt considers the car worth considerably more than the $500 for which it was sold.

Mr. Nesbitt also lost $80 worth of new parts which were in the car at the time it was stolen.

The police located the car as the result of an error made by the man who sold it, in writing a serial number when transferring the car.

CHIRR-UP!

By GOLDEN GLOW

(Note: This article was written when the robins which are today finishing off the strawberry crop were still safely shut up in the shell.)

One of the lovely things about this time of the year is the song of the robins! "Chirr-up," it sounds like "Chirr-up, chirr-up, cheerio!" I might as well say that I am so wretched, towards morning, were it not for the chorus of robins—how I do love to hear them! They start before daybreak, and keep it up for half an hour or more. Since I imagined, some years ago, that they were holding a "sunrise service," this idea has become fixed in my mind.

One particularly powerful singer (sounds like the daddy of all the robins) seems to lead the chorus, and you can hear him dominate the whole celebration. You can imagine they are reading the psalms, verse about, as we do in church, for he takes a part all by himself, then they all come in—again he takes a solo part, and again he is followed by the chorus: "Cheerio, cheerio, chirr-up," varied by "Chirr-up, chirr-up, cheerio!" Then they have a soprano solo—then another chorus and the one with the powerful voice gives the address. Then the "early" birds fly off in search of the promised worm, and believe me they get it! Their quick eyes never miss seeing one, whether it wiggles or not.

Last Saturday as we were working in our victory garden, we were amused and entertained by a pair of robins who would come right down beside where we were digging, eating and planting seedlings, and believe it or not, one robin had five worms in his beak before he flew away to the nest. They worked every bit as hard as we did!

During the wet, chilly, rainy weather we had last month, one of my neighbors watched the birds oiling their feathers to keep off the rain. Oh, the birds are a source of interest! The lovely oriole is a prime favorite round our home.

And the squirrels—they scatter maple keys all over as they clean out our eavestroughs! One day I opened the little window in the upper hall above the front verandah—I forgot to put in the screen, but I haven't forgotten since, for, going upstairs with an armful of clean clothes to put away, there was a black squirrel in the upper hall. Luckily he knew where he had come in, and made a mad dash for the window. So did I, and slammed the window shut—for I certainly do not want squirrels in my house. I've heard too many tales of them from others who have tried everything to drive them from their attics, followed, just sedately, by five or six small ones, a perfect replica of her, in black and white. It must have been pretty—but excuse me! I once saw a skunk near Glenville and, if I hadn't been told in time what it was, I probably would have rescued it, thinking it was somebody's lost kitten! Speaking of Glenville, I wonder if our town fishermen are catching any more beauties out there like the one Mr. Fred Chantler caught a few years ago. Do you ever stop to watch the martins down Main St. and listen to their musical voices? And have you a flicker anywhere near you? They sure do keep up an incessant pounding and calling—but I started off to tell you about our beloved robins and see where I end.

There is one other thing I want to mention. I have been telling of the Memorial park opposite the Anglican church, the Lions' park to the west of the church, the bowling green and tennis court and ball park, but there's another lovely spot you should not miss. If you are down Main St., take a walk to what we always used to call the "bank corner" (where Main St. joins Water St. and you go round the corner to Eagle St.), stand there by the fancy iron railing and look over at the South African memorial and the evergreens all around it and the waterworks lawn. I think you won't describe it but let me get a pleasant surprise. It is really beautiful with the gleam of the waterfall beyond and the sparkling water of Fairy Lake through the shrubs and trees, and farther along the other little park with the community flingtail.

Quaker, Christian, Baptist, Is History Of Little Church

King Emmanuel Baptist church celebrated recently the 100th anniversary of the founding of the church on the fifth concession of King township, near Kettleby.

A number of Quakers migrating from the United States of America, from 1800 to 1830, mostly from Pennsylvania and from the Quaker refugee settlement at Pennfield, New Brunswick, took up farms at what was locally called the Hilborn Settlement. They had come in with Timothy Rogers from Vermont.

Originally meetings were held in the Proctor log schoolhouse. In 1850 the present church site was bought from Thomas Ramsden at a cost of £17 10s. The original trustees were Martin Bogart, William Hilborn and John Tatton. Martin Bogart came from Pennsylvania, William Hilborn from Ferrisburg, Vermont, and John Tatton was one of the Pennfield settlers from New Brunswick.

In the first years the ministers of the church were of the Christian denomination and the church continued under that denomination until Dec. 17, 1931, when the property and the congregation became identified with the Baptist church and the church was then named the "King Emmanuel Baptist church."

The following were among the early members: Delilah Heacock, Seth Heacock, Amos Hollingshead, Thomas Ramsden, Thomas Webster, Calvin Davis, Jesse Hilborn, Thomas Hilborn, Asa Buck, John Walton, Jesse Walton, William Walton, John Toole, Isaac Proctor, Martin Bogart, John Curtis, Sr., John Curtis, Jr., Elisha Chappell, Ferdinand Bogart, Benjamin Terry, Martin Bogart, Jr., William Hilborn, Sr., William Hilborn, Jr., Gersham Proctor, Jesse Shrigley, Charles Hamilton, Timothy Hilborn, David Dales, William Armstrong, Catherine Lemon.

The following were ministers of the King Christian church: Elder Hainer, Elder Willoughby, Elder Percy, Elder Garbutt, Elder Chidley, Elder Daniel Prosser, Dr. L. W. Dales as a student, Elder Thomas Weekes, Elder Alexander McKenzie, Elder E. C. Hall, Elder J. W. Hall and Elder Clark.

On the day of the centennial anniversary (Sunday, June 13) the morning service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Harry Wilson, with Rev. Dr. H. H. Bingham, the general secretary of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, as guest speaker.

The organist was Mrs. Chalmers Black and the members of the choir were Mrs. Stanley Barradell, Mrs. H. Webster, Miss Frances Webster, Miss Grace Webster, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Rev. Harry Wilson, Miss Laura Black, Frank Curtis, John Barradell.

On the Monday evening in the hall in Kettleby there was a program. Rev. Harry Wilson presided and Rev. John Gallows, Rev. F. V. Abbott of Christ church, Kettleby, Rev. A. R. Park and J. M. Walton of Aurora spoke briefly. Greetings were received from former pastors, notably Dr. Lowell W. Dales, Newmarket, who in his student days served as minister to the congregation.

Dr. Dales wrote: "Dear Mr. Wilson and all my friends new and old over a period of a quarter of a century:

"Let me thank you for your kind and thoughtful invitation to be present at the 100th anniversary of the little church on the 5th con. of King. If it were not for a previous obligation I should certainly be present and enjoy all over again the generous and good-hearted hospitality which it was my pleasure to experience for so many years a long time ago. Coming as it did during the impressionable years of my life I have never forgotten the fine friendships and the splendid times of those years.

"To me those days were full of ambition and promise flavored by happy events and the never failing encouragement of grand men and women who never seemed to tire of a scholastic delivering very dry and sometimes indigestible sermons and one who certainly lacked the dignity and poise expected of a clergyman.

"In spite of all these deficiencies I received the never failing greeting and warm friendship which is better than 'silver or gold' to the young man at that period of life.

"May I recall some of the splendid occasions which we had and which seem so vivid that they might have happened but yesterday. The great annual strawberry festival with the biggest strawberries and the thickest cream, and all you could eat. What a delight to young and healthy appetites. Remember the football games, the program of music, song and recitation—yes, and no program was complete without some words of wisdom from our old friend, J. M. Walton, King's native son.

"Remember the concert in the hall in Kettleby when Fred Webster joined the amateur orchestra and made his stiff fingers keep up with the lively tunes.

"Yes, and my mind goes back to the song service in the fine Christian church in Newmarket, when we all piled into sleighs drove to the church on a beautiful winter's evening and the grand music that was rendered by the little church choir of over 20 voices.

"Little did we realize how full of real pleasure were those happy days lived around the little church. Simple and plain was the building but it was a dignified meeting place for young and old and a great influence on the lives of its members and adherents, even as it is today.

"So it carries on—older than the oldest of us all. It has seen families come, grow up and pass on—some succeed, some fail, but it has given its inspiration equally and fairly to all.

"May it live long a community centre for the homes and families of the neighborhood, as it has done through a long period of 100 years, and may there always be those who will take up the torch and carry on its fine traditions of inspiration and example—of comfort and hope—to all within its gates.

"I cannot but give my tribute to some of the grand families that brought the little church through trying times. May I mention some—the Ramsdens, Bogarts, Websters, Barradells, the Hilborns, Blacks, Bakers and Cooks, the Smiths, the Wilsons and many more whose children and grandchildren should be proud of the achievements of their forebears.

"These pioneers and builders built better than they knew and no tribute is too great to offer in words of praise for their great achievement. Such examples make for a greater and better Canada and should be always held up before the coming generation of new citizens.

"Thank you for your invitation and this opportunity to say a word of praise for your church and your own valued leadership."

Reeve C. A. Malloy stated that "rubbish impedes the flow of the water and material lies along the banks that will cause an odor unless it is raked into the stream and washed away."

Councillor Dr. G. A. C. Gunton stated that Vice-President Stanley Brock, of Canada Packers, had been in touch with him with regard to a sewage disposal plant for the Collis Leather Co., and that action would be taken soon.

For the past year he had been a staff wireless operator at Malton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Stephenson, Oak Ridges. He received his education in Pickering township and Aurora.

ARMORED CORPS TAKE FIRST OF FOUR GAMES

By a one-run margin, which left Ordinance supporters still feeling they had been out-luck-ed, No 3 C.A.C.T.R., leaders of the Camp Borden north zone league, squeezed out a one-run 7-6 decision here on Tuesday evening.

It was Ordinance's best game of the season and right now the Depot boys are playing smart ball and will be hard to take.

Both umpires, Holman and Krowchuk, came in for considerable criticism but both turned in a fine effort. A decision by umpire Krowchuk at first, which allowed the armored corps boys to squeeze over the winning run in the sixth frame, was one of the "breaks" of the game.

Sgt. Ab. Hulse, returning to the scene of many years ball experience, fielded a team which, except for one bad inning of play, had an edge on Depot.

The armored corps boys nicknamed "Joint" McComb for 12 hits, while Ordinance gathered eight from the offerings of Page and Peters. Page, pitching his first game in a month, performed well but the relief pitching of Peters saved the game.

A home run by Walt Clark of the No. 3 team, and two fine seventh inning pegs from the outfield, to cut runners off at the plate, were outstanding.

"Knobby" Jones, in left field for the winners, with two out pegged out McComb with what would have been the tying run in the seventh inning. Will White and "Bunny" Glover were tops for Depot, while Charlie Case and McComb formed a neat battery. Case was at the plate in the ninth with the winning runs on bases and two outs but Peters whiffed him to end the game.

The two teams have arranged a four-game series and Ordinance are vowing revenge. A tie score might well have ended things satisfactorily. The last two innings were played in semi-darkness due to the late arrival of the black beret boys.

AC2 George Morris, R.C.A.F., Toronto, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Morris.

Marks 92nd Year

Mrs. James Pearson, Schomberg, celebrated her 92nd birthday on June 30. Mrs. Pearson is hale and hearty and still finds life full of beauty and pleasure.

The occasion was celebrated quietly at the home of her only son, Ernest Pearson, Schomberg, and was marked by remembrances from many friends, old and young.

She has spent 60 years in King township. Her first home was a pioneer farmhouse built by the Pearson family in 1857. All the timbers were hewn from red pine trees.

During her early years there, Schomberg was a farmers' centre, with a hatter trading system in common use.

First president of Schomberg Women's Institute in 1912, Mrs. Pearson has been an active life Cross worker for many years. During two wars she has knitted 150 pairs of socks. She is now Schomberg's oldest resident.

Best Well Town Ever Had, Reeve Malloy Tells Council

Mayor Frank Underhill and members of the Aurora town council expressed their delight with the town's new well on Gurnett St. at a council meeting on Monday evening.

The chairman of the water committee, Councillor A. A. Cook, who has been responsible for the drilling operations, was not present.

The water is now going into the town mains, it was stated. Accounts totalling $1,212 for the well were before the council. This included the cost of pipe.

"It is not an expensive well," commented Councillor Dr. G. A. C. Gunton.

Clerk A. C. A. Willis said that the flow had increased from 40 gallons a minute to 60 gallons. "It is the best well we ever had," said Reeve C. A. Malloy. "It is the deepest too, isn't it, 325 feet?" said Dr. Gunton.

In reply to a question from Dr. Gunton, Mr. Willis said that the peak for electric power used comes at the present time between 11 and 12 in the forenoon.

"Why were the street lights on on Saturday morning?" asked Dr. Gunton.

Mr. Willis said that the light foreman was checking the bulbs. He said that the employees watched the peak carefully.

Dr. Gunton suggested that Chief Constable Fisher Dunham might make a note at night of bulbs that were burnt out.

Orangemen Have Church Parade, No March On 12th

Aurora L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. are parading to Aurora United church on Sunday morning.

Rev. Roy Hicks, the pastor, will preach an Orange sermon.

The lodge members meet at the Orange hall at 10.30 a.m.

Children at the Loyal True Blue and Orange home, Richmond Hill, will take part in the church parade if transportation is found to be available.

There will be no North York July 12 march this year in commemoration of King William of Orange and the Battle of the Boyne.

Foresees Post-War Influx, Demand For Town Lots

A questioned account of $100 for extra work performed for the municipality in former years by the town auditors, Hilborn, Williams & Co., was paid by Aurora town council on Monday evening. This was additional to the auditors' annual fee.

The council agreed to allow Factory Equipment Ltd. use of the town sewage system for a fee of $90.

The question of selling lots now owned by the town was discussed.

"Do we want to sell lots in war-time?" asked Councillor Fred Rowland. "They can't get materials to build and some persons may put up shacks. After the war there will be a lot of people coming to this country and there will be a demand for lots."

"We should make sure that purchasers put up a house," said Councillor Dr. G. A. Gunton.

be able to get the materials for a year or two," Mr. Rowland said with regard to one bidder.

"What difference does it make if they build now or not?" asked Mayor F. H. Underhill. "Put in the deed that they must build a house of a certain standard."

"I think that would be all right," said Councillor A. N. Fisher.

"Can you put on a heavier tax for a vacant lot as is done in Toronto?" suggested Dr. Gunton.

Mr. Rowland was authorized as chairman of the property committee to deal with any prospective purchasers and to bring their offers before the next council meeting.

Mr. Rowland thought that the council should sell any lots that it could in order to make them tax-producing. Mayor Underhill said that it was unfair to citizen owners of vacant lots to sell town-owned lots too cheaply.

ONE WEEK OR TWO FOR HOLIDAYS DISCUSSED

Aurora will observe Monday, Aug. 2, as a civic holiday, and the town council will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 3.

Whether town employees should have two weeks holidays or one week was discussed by the council on Monday evening.

"I think that employees other than senior employees should get only one week as long as citizens working in the factories get only one week," said Reeve C. A. Malloy. The senior employees who get two weeks are Chief Constable Fisher Dunham and the town foreman, James Goulding.

"Maybe we should set an example," said Councillor G. A. C. Gunton. "My own employees get two weeks."

Dr. Gunton said that he and Dr. Henderson had arranged to take their holidays at different times. Dr. Henderson was taking July for holidays and he would take August.

"I get more discontented with my occupation all the time," commented Mayor Frank Underhill.

Perhaps he (Dr. Gunton) would be able to take only a part of August, replied Dr. Gunton.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Lieut. Dave Matheson, who for two years was a leader in sporting activities at Newmarket Camp, is now stationed at Camp Borden and hoping to get overseas.

Lieut. Matheson was primarily in charge of hockey and knew the game from A to Z. Of last year's entire team at No. 23, only Coach Sgt. Jack McDonald, goalie Al. Wysinski, Jack Wheeler, Charlie Nesbitt and Clair Exelby are still in the camp. A new team will be rounded up from somewhere by next winter. Lieut. Matheson was responsible for the first hockey team in the first year of the camp and in two years had made the entire Camp hockey conscious and produced a real contender.

Brampton Camp is certainly in the sporting limelight this year with an ace lacrosse team, a smart hardball outfit, playing in the Canadian Congress league, and a pretty fair softball team. Lieut. Bing Caswell and Major Adams have done a fine job in a year's time.

Teddy Lister, ace forward of the Bullets, and McMullen, the right-winger of the group hockey champions, are playing on the hardball team, while Don Campbell, rookie hockey winger and a real prospect, and Plumley, who rounded out the defence for the play-offs, are performing with the lacrosse team, who are coached by civilian Jerry Kendall of Brampton, hero of many a battle for the gutted stick artists from roselawn.

Arie Barselaar, Aurora, now with the artillery at Petawawa camp and a former member of the 2nd Queen's Yorks reserve, took third place in the javelin throw from a host of spirited competitors a few days ago. The winner, Courtwright from Ottawa is of Olympic calibre. So the showing made by Barselaar is all the more creditable. Javelin throwing requires a great deal of skill and in local secondary school track and field events has been more or less overlooked, although tried. The boys have almost had a stranglehold on this event in the Olympic games, although Dorval P'ling from Alberta, a Canadian who has been coached in the States, was able to get into the top circles a decade ago.

From the present army training should come a host of fine athletes ready for international competition. For instance every day at most camps there is a 45-minute period of organized sports, volleyball, track, boxing and softball. With the boys in good condition, the results are better than might be expected from boys who on the whole have never had proper coaching or, in many cases, even the opportunity to learn how these games are played. There was a tremendous boom in sports after the last war but it will be insignificant to the developments that will come with this peace. Aside from competitors, the actual numbers of new sport fans developed will be something to think about. The boys will not wish to miss seeing the many events which they have found in wartime provided fine relaxation and enabled them to keep up morale.

Jimmy Coffell, who two years ago was a member of the championship Milton junior C team and was the first from that gang of gamecocks to go on active service, turned up as the individual track champion in the garrison sports day held in Toronto recently. Coffell was outstanding in the sprints and in peace-time would be heralded as an Olympic prospect.

Scotty Mair and Marj. McCarnan, both natives of Newmarket and starring second basemen in Toronto senior softball, have had their potent bats silenced in recent weeks by the opposing moundsmen. The result has been that both their teams are not going as good as early in the season. Just to prove we're wrong, however, they're liable to break out in a rash of hits before this issue goes to press.

Earl Marshall, one of the finest softballers ever to appear in York-Simcoe competition, left the ranks of the benefitted last Saturday. The Barrie boy middle-aided it with Edna Legear of Barrie, daughter of a well-known Barrie sporting family. Marshall played against Aurora and Newmarket with both Allandale Imperials and Barrie Collegians.

Clayton Doolittle, former Aurora junior hockeyist, now overseas, becomes a bridegroom next week in the first overseas war-time romance among the ranks of the many North York sportsmen on active service. Clay, won honors at the half-mile two years ago with the C.E.F. overseas, but has apparently been too busy with romance to take much part the past year.

Aurora Ordnance softballers have not had too much luck in their softball starts to date. Newmarket Camp defeated them 17-2, Toronto Ordnance beat them 6-2, and Army Drivers from the Dentonia circuit won from them 5-2. But the boys are improving each time out and when they are equipped with spiked shoes and get working together will be hard to take. A new policy has been adopted, according to R.S.M. Deegan. Only bona fide employees and members of the R.C.O.C. stationed here will be used, regardless of results. Some of Case's Aces will fill in when there is a player shortage.

Charlie Case and "Joint" McComb team up for an all-Aurora battery and both boys are working better than when they played in the York-Simcoe circuit. McComb needs pitching relief, as obviously he cannot carry the entire load. Norm Goodhead at first base is giving a good account of himself, even if a bit hotheaded. His arguments lost one game for the team. Francis at second base works well, and hockeyist "Bunny" Glover leaves little to be desired at third.

Will White, one-time ace outfielder for Aurora, back from overseas, was filling the shortstop post in fine fashion but unfortunately sustained three broken ribs in the last game. "Whitey" is running in hard luck, as he sustained a hockey injury late in the season too.

Herb Farley, another hockeyist, is expected to fill the vacancy. Owen Segar, Jimmy Emmons, Briggs Creighton, Wright and Morris Cook form the outfield. Cook, of course, will be able to relieve McComb if need be, and we expect to see him on the mound for Ordnance.

This week we are bringing down the boys from No. 3 C.A.C.T.C. to clash with Depot and from what we know and what we have heard there should be a tidy battle.

Detroit Incident came home to us last week. Our ace infielder and one of the best all-around athletes we have ever seen is Gilbert Heron, lanky colored lad, who hails from the U.S. motor city. Heron went on long weekend and was preparing to come back to camp when scatterbrains lit the tinder that started the fires of racial hatred burning. The lad saw his mother's shop windows broken, his sister come home with a cut arm, and himself mounted guard for over a day on his own premises armed with a shotgun. He returned to duty as soon as things had settled back to normal, and apparently bore no animosity about the whole thing. Seems a far cry from democracy to read about such things happening on this continent. In fact, if there was no date-line you might think it was a dispatch from Nazi-controlled Europe. It all adds up to mean that even in democratic North America there is a considerable amount of housecleaning to be done before this old world can be the place we all so much would like it to be.

Howard Leonard, Aurora, coach of the Angus Bombers in both hockey and softball, ran into some hard luck last week as a motor accident robbed him of some of his best performers just prior to a clash with our charges.

Stan Evans, Newmarket, took the mound and, while not a pitcher, tried his best, to no avail. He then went to his regular infield berth, where he played a fine game. The boys in the black beret won the game easily but Leonard vows it will be a different story next time out. The fliers would like to clash with Newmarket Camp, believing they could get revenge for those hockey losses of last winter.

Aurora Cycling club, whose war record is unexcelled by any other North York sporting organization, lost its first member to the grim reaper in the person of the late Gert Larsen. Young Larsen started in the cycling game when Bob Benville endeavored to organize a Newmarket Cycling club, but like others, when that effort petered out, linked forces with the Aurora contingent. He was just getting ready to compete in races when he enlisted. Those who knew the lad say he was a fine sportsman and bike critics say he would have made a fine rider.

As we write these lines we can recall only two junior members of the club left at home from all the boys who competed for Jack Offord and George Spence a few years back. Remember the fine road races that attracted large crowds whenever held? Well, a partial list of the boys on active service includes Cliff Chapman, Don Judd, "Mickey" Smith, Bob Benville, Harold and Norman Foster, Billy Heath, Gord. Horner, Roy Sanderson, Art. Bunn, Eddie Mosley, Dave Matheson, Clarence Fisher, "Bud" Denne, Johnny O'Connor, Art Hill, Jack Atkinson, Vic. Hanson, Leon. Copeland, Frank Bailey, Tommy Richards, Eric Bunn. Offhand, we would say that 95 percent of those able to serve Canada are doing so. One member, the late Muir Teasdale, lost his life as he returned home from war work. Hardest part of all is that, with bikes so scarce, there are no young riders coming on, but, on the other hand, many people who never rode a bike before are now doing so. Men like Offord, Spence, Smith and Benville can be depended upon to have the wheels rolling again once the war is over.

WEDS IN ENGLAND

Strangest appointment on the sporting scene we have ever heard of was that of the late Charles Christian Hoyer Miller, who died in London, England, a few months ago at the ripe old age of 81. It is recorded in the minutes of the most famous cricket grounds in the world, "Lord's," that Mr. Miller was appointed "honorary weed-killer to the Marleybone cricket club, in consideration of his untiring labors and penetrating skill in dealing with the intrusions of plants and other unwanted and unwanted vegetation that appear from time to time on the historical and far-famed turf at Lord's cricket grounds. A thing like that could happen only in cricket and in England. Mr. Miller actually kept a record of the weeds he pulled and they numbered nearly 1,000,000. Mr. Miller, asked once how he came upon such a strange appointment, said: "Every lover of a lawn knows the temptation to stoop and pick a disgusting invader. Well, I love Lord's and that is how it all began."

One year ago the Camp softball team at No. 23 read as follows: Jackie Vaughan ss, Bernie Gantner 2b, Johnny Mitchell lf, A. Wysinski cf, Clair Exelby c, Billy Wilson 3b, Jack Gorrie 1b, Wes. Niles, Cecil Brown, "Red" Mahaffey on the mound and Tarzan Pirie, utility. We repeat this in answer to a request we received recently.

Bobby Pearce, famed Australian Canadian amateur professional sculler, as might be expected, is now an officer in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Charles McMaster, who a few years ago played softball against North York teams as a member of both Midhurst Foresters and Barrie Collegians, had the misfortune to break his arm in an accident a couple of weeks ago. McMaster, whom we picked two years in a row for alternate or second-team all-star honors, is a member of the R.C.A.F. and until his accident was the starting pitcher for No. 13 X, Angus Bombers. He is likely out for the season now.

Breath of North York came to us last week as we surveyed our own softball team at No. 3 C.A.C.T.C. and found two of the utility players were from the garden spot of Ontario.

Harvey Anderson, who originally hails from Baldwin, is our No. 3 hurler and is rapidly improving. "Andy" played with Sutton, Zephyr and other teams in the Lake Simcoe circuit before moving to Toronto. Then he played indoor football and then played inter-camp baseball at Brampton camp. A big husky lad, he has a nice fastball and tosses them in close to the batters.

Jack Foote, who originally comes from Mount Albert, is a spare infielder and outfielder capable of relieving a regular without weakening the team. He is the son of Herb Foote, who at one time kept the hotel and bar at the Mount Albert. He has been residing in Toronto and took his basic training at Orillia. Bruce Foote, who played hockey for Aurora Juniors back in the early 30's, is a cousin.

"Flash" McMaster, speedy forward with Newmarket Redmen the past winter, is playing baseball at North Bay, where he is now stationed. The 300 boy is a fairly nifty shortstop and pitcher. Nicoll, who was a team-mate at No. 23 and on the same line, is stationed at the Kawartha and rates with the best in the league.

Charlie Smith, after a poor start, came back with a bang at Hamilton and ended up on top of the riders with no less than 11 firsts. "Smitty" rode four in one day and most of his mounts paid better than usual prizes, some in two figures. Since he has been engaged to ride the horses trained by Reg. Cornell it has been a lucrative business to place the wagers on "C.W."

What's in a name? Noticed that the International baseball league has engaged an umpire by the name of "Toth"? You can bet he must be taking a terrible razzing from the fans, with a moniker like that.

Bill Cowling, who was a substitute with Brampton camp hockeyists last winter, is now stationed at Camp Borden with the armored corps.

Doug, Hope of Pine Orchard, erstwhile catcher for teams in the Lake Simcoe league and goalie the past

Everything that could be done to make the great unemployed meeting a success had been accomplished. A large hall and a good speaker had been engaged. When the latter arrived he seemed to be in a crabby frame of mind. Looking around he beckoned the chairman.

"I would like to have a glass of water on my table, if you please," he said.

"To drink?" was the chairman's idiotic question.

"Oh, no," was the sarcastic retort. "When I've been speaking a half-hour I do a high dive."

Valliere of Newmarket took the 220 yards in 24 seconds, with Smylie of Camp Borden second and Craven of the R.C.A.F. third.

Smylie of Camp Borden came back to capture the 440 in 5 1/2 seconds, with Craven of the R.C.A.F. second and Buch of Camp Borden third. Ballon of the navy ran the 880 in two minutes, 1 1/2 seconds, to take the event, with Carr of Camp Borden and Tom of Newmarket second and third.

The 880-yard relay was won by Newmarket's in one minute and 39 seconds. Camp Borden and the R.C.A.F. ran second and third.

Where endurance counts, the Navy is unexcelled, as proved by its victory in the mile. Ballon, apparently unwinded by his exertions in the 880, ran the mile in the excellent time of four minutes and 56 seconds. Morton of the R.C.A.F. and Unwin of Camp Borden were second and third.

The three-miler was won by Morton of the R.C.A.F. with a time of 16 minutes and 32 seconds. Halligan of No. 2 District Depot placed second and Bigley of Camp Borden third.

Proving his versatility, Smylie of Camp Borden placed first in the running broad with a leap of 19 feet. Valliere of Newmarket was second and Coffell of No. 2 District Depot third.

The high jump was won by the mayor's son, Bob Dales, with Sparks of Camp Borden second. Young Dales made a nice leap of five feet six inches.

The pole vault also was captured by young Robt. Dales, who soared to a height of 12 feet. Joe Dales, his brother, placed second and Coffell of No. 2 District Depot third.

The shot put went to Cox of the R.C.A.F., who put the shot 48 feet five inches. Biocchi of Camp Borden placed second in this event and Griffin of No. 2 District Depot third.

At 4:30 children's race events were scheduled and at 5 o'clock the schedule called for a series of army demonstrations, including drill, which "D" company won, and a two-inch mortar display, combined with battle drill.

At the same time series of boxing bouts took place. In the 126-pound class Pontalone of Newmarket defeated Asbey of Camp Borden, and Osmer of No. 2 District Depot won a decision over Grover of the R.C.A.F.

In the 135-pound class Wolfe of the Navy won the first bout from Bambacco of Newmarket and in the second bout Mangotich was declared the winner over Marshall of Camp Borden.

In the 147-pound class Bricker of No. 2 District Depot defeated Wozniak of the R.C.A.F. In the 160-pound class, Robinson of Camp Borden defeated Storey of the R.C.A.F. and Chesson of No. 2 District Depot won a decision over Martin of the R.C.A.F.

At 5:15 Navy and Army engaged in a friendly game of soccer. The stalwart sons of the sea had little difficulty in booting their way to victory.

At 5:30 the entire camp area literally trembled as the Navy, Army and Air Force tug-of-war teams took the field. After much taking of the strain, and copious drafts of perspiration, the Royal Navy, accustomed as it is to ropes, bowed to the victor, No. 2 District Depot.

At 6 o'clock the schedule called for a softball game between Toronto Ladies and Staffords. What interested everybody more, however, were the colorful, exciting costumes of the ladies, so much so, as a matter of fact, that it was rather difficult for the boys to buckle down to an obstacle course and P.T. demonstration at a quarter to six.

In the meantime, a group of the camp's own entertainers, M.C.'ed by Cpl. Jack Lemon, and a group of professional artists from Toronto were delighting the hearts of a large crowd in the grandstand with entertainment of high quality.

At 8:30 prizes in the form of war savings stamps were presented to the day's winners and at 9 o'clock everybody flocked to the drill hall to dance. The floor had been especially prepared and the camp orchestra under Cpl. Jack Turner was in excellent form. At about midnight, the tumult and the shouting died.

"We left with the bottles of beer and later returned to the premises in company with Constable Hill," stated Constable McQuade.

"I don't know whether you are aware of it but I suppose that you are, but a licensed seller, as you are, is not permitted to sell liquor for consumption off the premises," Magistrate Robinson told Mr. Miller.

"He asked us if we were police officers and we said 'no,'" the witness went on to say that the defendant gave him and the other police officer six bottles of beer in return for a two dollar bill, of which they had previously noted the number. He gave them 50 cents change.

POLICE COURT HITS FARMER'S WIFE, GETS SIX MONTHS JAIL

"The only reason you have for striking this woman with pliers is that you wanted to knock her out so that you could get your clothes and get away," commented Magistrate W. N. Robinson in York county police court in Newmarket, on Tuesday, sentencing Elroy Dahmer, Pefferlaw, to six months in the Ontario Reformatory on a charge of assault and bodily harm.

"On the charge of having in your possession a false registration certificate, I am sentencing you to three months in the reformatory, this to run concurrently with the term given in the other charge."

The defendant, a teen-aged youth, pleaded guilty to the two offences. Mrs. Charles Taylor, Georgina township, told his worship that at about 1:15 p.m. on June 25 her husband had gone to a funeral, leaving her and their three small children at home. She said that after her husband's departure, the defendant, a hired hand on the farm, came into the house and, when she asked him where he had been, he said that he was picking weeds from among the raspberry bushes.

"He went to the cupboard and said that he was going to get some tobacco," Mrs. Taylor stated. "He said that he was going upstairs to get a bag to put the tobacco into and I said, as I usually do, that my husband was sleeping and that I'd get him an envelope."

"I went to the cupboard where I keep my stationery to get an envelope," continued the witness, "but over and over I looked up I saw a pair of pliers in his hands coming down on my head. He struck me a number of times and I had difficulty in fighting him off."

Mrs. Taylor went on to say that at one time she was thrown 16 feet across the floor. She said that as she attempted to escape through a screen-door in the dining-room, the defendant ran out the door and intercepted her. When she ran back into the room and put "the bitch" on the door, he struck at her with the pliers through the screen, making a large rent in it. She finally managed to escape, and, running down the lane, called to neighbors, who rescued two of her small children from their cots.

Questioned by Magistrate Robinson, who represented the crown, to the extent of the injuries she had received, Mrs. Taylor pointed to bruises, marks of which she still bore about her face and eyes, and added that she had also received bruises on her knees and shoulders, and that a gash on her head required three stitches.

In his testimony, Mr. Taylor, husband of the former witness, stated that he was out at about 3:30 p.m. and was told by his young son that Mrs. Taylor was hurt and was at a neighbor's house. When he saw her, she had already been attended to by a doctor. He added that her nerves were shattered and it was necessary to have the doctor attend her on three additional occasions.

"Have you anything to say for yourself?" Magistrate Robinson asked the defendant, and never got out at night," stated Mr. Dahmer. "I asked Mr. Taylor if I could go out and he said that he was afraid that I wouldn't come back. I thought that I'd get my clothes while he was away. I tried to knock her out so I could get my clothes and get away. I was going to go into town and maybe go away and get a job in some war plant."

He admitted that he had obtained a registration certificate under an assumed name.

With the consent of Miss Lyons, a charge against Eli Miller, Sutton hotel-keeper, of selling liquor contrary to a section of the Liquor Control Act which calls for a jail sentence upon conviction, was dismissed by Magistrate Robinson in favor of a lesser charge of selling liquor contrary to a section requiring upon conviction a minimum fine of $10 and costs.

Miss Lyons said that the set of circumstances fitted each case, and in view of the fact that the defendant was pleading guilty to the lesser charge, she was willing to have the more serious charge withdrawn.

According to Constable McQuade of the York county police, on June 23 he and Constable Allen Wallace had entered the premises of Mr. Miller to order a meal. When the latter told them that they would have to wait until six o'clock, they sat down and ordered a bottle of beer each.

"Mr. Miller asked us what we were doing and we told him that we were fishing," stated the police officer. "He told us that we could get a meal down the street. We went to this place and later came back and ordered another bottle of beer each. We went to the wash-room and coming out asked Mr. Miller if we could have a couple of bottles of beer to take out with us. He asked us if we were police officers and we said 'no.'"

The witness went on to say that the defendant gave him and the other police officer six bottles of beer in return for a two dollar bill, of which they had previously noted the number. He gave them 50 cents change.
